Transcript

[Person 1]: I don't know where the question is, but I don't know where this one is.

[Person 2]: Well, when I ask you a question, the first one?

[Person 2]: Right.

[Person 2]: What is the worst thing about being young?

[Person 1]: Well, you get lots of homework. It's also pretty delightful in the middle, like in school—like in the middle; I'm good.

[Person 1]: What is the worst thing about being old?

[Person 2]: Not being able to do things that you could do when you were young.

[Person 1]: Like, you can't bend down and get stuff on the floor?

[Person 2]: Well, I can still do that. But the problem is your body gets a bit stiff.

[Person 1]: No, I know it hurts a lot when you don't.

[Person 2]: That's right, yes. You might get sick more often. Hopefully, I don't. But that's the problem.

[Person 1]: It is pretty bad.

[Person 2]: It is pretty bad.

[Person 1]: The only time I want to be old is my mom to give me birth.

[Person 2]: Oh yeah, do you wish you were old?

[Person 1]: Maybe, like so old that I can voice stuff from my own experience and have faith and be married but love you.

[Person 1]: Do you wish you were young?

[Person 1]: Why?

[Person 2]: Well, the great thing about being young is you have more time. You have more time to do things. I could play games, which I did. I used to play cowboys and Indians.

[Person 1]: Yeah, that's what I played.

[Person 2]: Do you?

[Person 1]: Yeah. That's what I like about being young. I can use my imagination more.

[Person 2]: Well, I could be an older cowboy. Am I to a chef? Will you fall in love? And what will it be like?

[Person 1]: I don't know. Like with a baby, it'll be fun, all I can do is change. Even though all that hard to change is—it'll be fun.

[Person 1]: But what about the cries?

[Person 2]: Oh, well...

[Person 1]: It doesn't like that here and do it much.

[Person 2]: And who do you love now? My mom.

[Person 1]: Your mom?

[Person 2]: Your dad?

[Person 1]: I like my family. Did you fall in love? What was it like?

[Person 2]: Yes, it was different for me. I fell in love late.

[Person 1]: And did you get married?

[Person 2]: No, unfortunately, my partner passed away as she died, unfortunately. That was the same thing. She got sick.

[Person 1]: I'm gonna try.

[Person 2]: No, no, no, don't. No, no, no. No, no, no. It's these things that happen and show. That's life. But we have very good memories. Very good memories. And you live. And often the time you live in your head with memories. You can remember all the good things. And that's the important thing.

[Person 2]: Well, the advice I would give to you, Sean, is you don't have to be rich to be happy. Do the things you like doing that make you feel good. Because when you're happy yourself, everybody else is happy.

[Person 0]: Hey, Sean, do you have advice for your dad?

[Person 1]: To act normal. Don't be silly. Don't bully lots of people. The people I know in school—like my friend out in school, whenever he gets hurt, I hug him. I might not be able to work.

[Person 2]: Oh, that's good advice. And be yourself. Don't let other people tell you what you should be. Just be as you are. Isn't that true?

[Person 1]: Yeah.

[Person 2]: And I'm sure your life is going to be very successful. You have all the right things. All your good friends. Keep those friends going and keep life going.

[Person 0]: There you go.